4. Create an html page in which there are two links to Google.com and Wikipedia.com pages. If you click on it, the page will open in another tab.

Using css for the first link:

The link should not be underlined

  The link text color should be #000

  If you hover over the link, it will turn blue

  If the link is clicked, its color will be red, if the link has already been viewed, its color will be green for the second link:

  The link should be without underline, the color of the text of the link should be blue, if the link is hovered over, its color will be red, if the link is clicked, its color will be yellow.

If the link has already been viewed, its color will be changed